The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wu et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,262,030) in view of Djokic et al (U.S. Patent No. 4,886,792).

Wu et al disclose closely analogous azithromycin antibiotics (see, for example, column 8). The only difference between the azithromycins disclosed by Wu et al and the claimed azithromycins is at the 3-position i.e. the reference's compounds contain a keto group at the 3-position, while the claimed compounds contain a hydroxy group at the 3-position. However, since Djokic et al disclose closely analogous antibiotics having hydroxy group at the 3-position and a process for preparing said compounds by removing a cladinoside moiety (column 2), a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the claimed invention was made would have been motivated to modify the compounds disclosed by Wu et al at the 3-position in accordance with the teaching by Djokic et al because such a person would have expected the resulting compounds to have similar activity.

Applicant's arguments filed February 14, 2007 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
